August 12, 2010 10:00 AM ET

Clearwire Corporation CLWR, a leading provider of wireless broadband services and operator of the largest 4G network in the country, today announced plans to expand its East Milton customer care call center facility at the Santa Rosa Industrial Park.

"Clearwire is building the largest 4G wireless network in the nation," said Eric Petrosevich, director of customer operations for Clearwire. "The expansion of our call center in East Milton will allow us to better support the needs of our growing customer base. We're excited to provide great service to CLEAR customers around the country, as well as contribute to job creation in our local community."

"This significant growth of Clearwire's operations is a major economic development opportunity in Santa Rosa County, and I applaud all the business and government partners involved in making this expansion happen," said Governor Charlie Crist. "This is welcome news at a time when job creation is of critical importance to Florida's economy."

"This project is a prime example of how progressive the commission is in working with TEAM Santa Rosa to create jobs for citizens in the county. An expansion of this size is a significant opportunity for the Santa Rosa Industrial Park and a huge economic win for East Milton," said Bob Cole, Santa Rosa County Commissioner.

Clearwire provides CLEAR® 4G, take-it-with-you internet service, to businesses and consumers. With CLEAR, anyone can now use the internet at speeds four times faster than 3G* – whether at home, in the office, or on the go – within CLEAR coverage.

Clearwire established the customer call center in Santa Rosa County in 2007 with 20 employees and a projection of creating 300 jobs over a three-year period. The company surpassed this estimate in 2009 by reaching the 500-employee mark.

"Clearwire is a tremendous asset to the County," said Shannon Ogletree, Associate Director of TEAM Santa Rosa Economic Development Council. "This expansion makes Clearwire the largest single private employer in the County."

In addition to the additional jobs in Santa Rosa County, Clearwire also supports a strong commitment to the local communities in which it operates through its 'Connecting With Communities' program. Clearwire has participated in numerous community service projects in the area, the most recent being the revitalization of Bagdad Elementary School. More than 100 Clearwire employees volunteered to reface the façade of the school building, add new landscaping at the entrance, and upgrade the computer classroom.
